

Cartomagia Classics Vol. 1 by Juan Araujo (Portuguese Language) video DOWNLOAD

In this video the brazilian magician Juan Araújo revisits great card magic classics with his personal style:

Red Hot Mamma (Al Leech / Frank Everhard) - The back of a card chosen from a blue deck turns red. That card is removed and the procedure is repeated, with the spectator choosing another card. It doesn't appear that there is another red card in the deck, but the red card that had ben removed changes in the second selection.

Gemini Twins (Karl Fulves) - After a spectator shuffles the deck, the magician removes 2 cards saying that they are his predictions. Cards are dealt on the table and the spectator freely says "stop" where he wants, this point is marked leaving the first prediction face up. The procedure is repeated for the second prediction. At the end the cards beside the predictions are theirs mates.

Dr. Daley's Last Trick (Jacob Daley) - Only the four Aces are used. The 2 red aces are put face down on the spectator's hand and the magician keeps the black aces. Immediately the transposition happens between the red and black aces.

Emotional Reaction (Dai Vernon) - From a shuffled deck, the spectator looks to a card and then loses it in the deck. In these conditions the magician manages to find the chosen card.

Triumph (Dai Vernon) - After a chosen card is lost in the deck, the cards are shuffled with half of the deck face down and half face up. At the end all the cards are facing the same way, with the exception of one, which is the chosen card.
