

The Broken Triangle by Sam Wooding eBook DOWNLOAD

Imagine this. You walk up to your spectator and show them a list of twenty different songs. You then ask the spectator to imagine seeing its title in the air. You then ask them to sing the song in their head. The performer proceeds to successfully divine the song.

You'll learn the Flood Principle; this principle is an exciting new two-way reductive out and you will learn two new routines that utilize this exciting principle.

The two routines aren't massive ground-breaking routines, but they will get your creative gears turning!

The first routine is The Small Color -- this is where you divine a thought. This is a routine I developed when I was around twelve. Ever since I first created this, I have been completely blowing people's minds.

The second routine is Heckno Techno. This is where you divine a thought of a phone company.

I'm sure you'll amaze people with both routines - download, learn, and enjoy their bewildered reactions!