

Eight card miracle

A performer introduces a small wallet (in the video a box is used) explaining to the spectators that it contains eight playing cards as a prediction. From a deck of cards, eight cards of the same suit, from Ace to eight are withdrawn and shuffled. A card is chosen by a spectator and turned face up without changing its original position. The prediction cards are taken out of the wallet and spread... to everyone's surprise only one card is face up, and it is the same card and same position as the spectator's chosen card. Furthermore the card is turned face down showing a different color than the other seven.

- The gimmicked cards are original bicycle cards and supplied is a practical wallet for the effect.
- The regular Bicycle deck from which you should take the normal 8 cards of spades necessary, is not supplied.
