

Funny Prediction - 10 of Hearts

The magician asks a lady in the audience to choose a card, saying that he already has a prediction in his pocket. After the card is chosen, he proudly shows this prediction to the audience ... but it has the wrong card on it! Embarrassed he unfolds the prediction and shows that now on it, there is the back of a card. With a smile on his face he tells the audience that the prediction was not completely wrong because the back of the card ... is the same! The audience starts laughing understanding that the magician is playing with them. Next he unfolds the prediction again showing a large joker and says "don't worry I'm a professional magician, and I'm only Joking!" while smiling looking at the Joker.

The audience keeps laughing along with the magician. But then all of a sudden he becomes serious, and says that he was not lying when he said that on his prediction there would have been the spectators selection ...he unfolds the prediction once more and shows ... the image of 52 playing cards and points to the chosen one. Again the audience laughs for the gag. But just when everybody starts thinking that it is all a joke, the magician unfolds one final time his prediction, showing a giant image of the exact card chosen!