

Bee Lotus Casino Grade (Blue) Playing Cards - Pokerdeck

Ever since the original Jerry's Nugget decks were discovered in the casino gift shop magicians have sought quality casino cards in pristine, uncanceled condition to both use and collect. Recently Conjuring Arts discovered a cache of new casino cards that not only are beautiful but also have normal faces and indices (the red is darker but the cards don't have the now common jumbo indexes and casino codes).

Many will ask where these cards came from. We can't reveal all the details but we can say that they were made for a casino in far east Asia that was operated by someone that is now on the US Government's "Black List" and can no longer do any business with the United States, including buying these cards! We cannot tell you more but suffice to say that the person running the casino might make a very good Bond Villain!

Of course these are limited and will not be reproduced in the future. Stock up now at our incredibly low price, you might not get another chance. And it might be worth noting that the retail on these, adjusted for inflation, is roughly the same as the price the original Jerry's sold for when the casino gift shop still had them.
