
Daydream by King Star - Pokerdeck

Do you still remember the innocence at that time?

Hold a crayon in hand and paint. Wandering freely on paper, imagining the future. Countless inspirations pour down on paper during the day in the late night. Brush strokes day after day...

Until that child grows up but there are still memories in my heart, right?

Open it in the warm sunshine. Feeling the faint fragrance of osmanthus lingering around. Childhood memories come to mind with the patterns appearing. Take this as an opportunity to regain that touch.
