
TRICOLOR DICE by Wayne Dobson and Alan Wong

Tricolor Dice is a fine five minute close up routine by Wayne Dobson features three small dice boxes and three colored dice that gives you a three- phase mindreading act under increasingly impossible conditions with a strong finish.

Despite the spectator makes all the choices of boxes, dice and all the mixing around, you are able to reveal which box the spectator has put the die in, and again with the boxes switched around, all with your back turned.

In the last phase, the spectator becomes the mind reader and as a kicker finish, they apparently have divined not only the color they have randomly chosen, also the number on top of the die they have randomly placed behind their back, and all color dice have matched the colors inside the three boxes.

Combining different clever principles in true Wayne Dobson style and professional presentation with detailed PDF instructions included.
