
Digital Twin by SansMinds Creative Lab - DVD

The closest thing to replicating a moment or an object is by taking a video or a photo.

But the moment and the object only stay in the digital world.

What if you can break the law of physics that goes beyond time and space and access the digital side for a moment?

Imagine borrowing a phone and recording a video of a bill with a unique serial number. All details are replicated digitally inside of a borrowed device. Now imagine for a split second, you force the door of the digital world to open, and you pull the bill into your own hand.
