

Bicycle - Aureo Playing Cards

In the early 1500s Leonardo Da Vinci illustrated "La Divina" (The Divine Proportion) a book written by mathematician Luca Pacioli that described a mathematical theory called "The Golden Ratio" which was used in Renaissance paintings and sculptures to achieve balance and beauty.

Da Vinci later called this Section Aurea or the Golden Section. The gold foil and swirl designs on the tuck bring the Golden ratio to life in this unique deck of cards.

Aureo deck features unique designs inspired by the art of the Renaissance and the Golden Ratio.

- Gold foil details on the tuck.
