

Cross (Red) by Marco Markiewicz

Imagine this:

you draw anything you want on the cellophane of your deck... then, in an instant, the drawing vanishes and travels.

Have a spectator choose a card and sign it before losing it in the deck. Then, place all the cards back into the box. Gently pull out the cellophane and draw a cross on it. In just one second, the cross disappears. Show the cellophane from all angles-it's completely gone.

Take out the deck and ask the spectator to spread the cards. One card has a cross on its back... they turn it over: it's their signed card.

Cross is a tool that lets you create your own routines. The only limit is your imagination.

Gimmick + video instructions included.