In the Harry Potter universe, a wand is the symbol of a wizard's power. To wield the most potent magic, one must first obtain the perfect wand. Similarly, in the world of magic, the wand is a magician's iconic accessory. Almost every magician will own one at some point, making wands as diverse as the styles they come in. This brings us to T-Tech's latest product - the RGB Magic Wand.

Watch the RGB Magic Wand in Action

The RGB Wand features red, green, and blue colors, with up to six possible color combinations. The color also shifts with power levels, enhancing the magical effects.

Crafted from electroplated stainless steel, the wand's design is tailored to house the electronic chipboard perfectly. Detachable screw tips at both ends allow for easy charging and ensure balanced weight.

We've also redesigned the internal chip and board to create a seamless fit, with the light-emitting end semi-concealed for optimal brightness, and the other end carefully protecting the internal components.

More importantly, the MCU logic chip and current-limiting resistor module ensure longevity and extended standby time, making the RGB Magic Wand an indispensable tool for your magic performances.
