

Timing by Doosung Hwang (Red)

"Timing" is a fun and powerful sandwich routine that allows interaction with the audience!

The performer hands two jokers to the spectator, who freely selects one card from the deck and signs it. While the performer dribbles the card, the spectator themselves inserts the two Jokers, one at a time, into the deck.

Explain that the closer the two Jokers are together, the better the timing is. So the audience concentrates on inserting the Jokers between the deck. When the cards are spread out to check, a single card is found sandwiched between the two Jokers. Just as the audience feels a slight disappointment over that tiny, subtle difference in their perfect timing... Something amazing happens.

When they check the card sandwiched between the two Jokers, it's their very own signed card!

The best part is that both the Joker and the signed card can be given to the spectator as a gift.

Spectators actively participate and enjoy it like a game, making it loved by all ages and leaving a lasting impression. It works great alongside existing sandwich routines or as a powerful standalone routine itself.

Now is the perfect time to get "Timing"!

Timing Features:

- The spectator inserts the card themselves.
- The spectator can insert the card freely anywhere.
- The gimmick takes care of all the hard work, making it incredibly easy.
- After the effect, both the Jokers and the signed card can be given to the spectator as a gift.
- Beyond basic effect, introduction to two additional presentations.

Notes

: You can choose between red and blue. All necessary gimmick cards are provided, so you only need to prepare a Bicycle deck of the same color separately. You can learn and perform it immediately.
