

Cthulhu: Cryogenic Mirage deck by Evokad

In this project, we present three works to you all - all of them use the grating technique on the card boxes to showcase the bizarre experiences of the legendary investigators in the Cthulhu Mythos.

In addition to the Investigator theme, we will also specially release a "Dreamscape" theme deck - "Cryogenic Mirage". Apart from the grating effect, we added an outer sleeve box to enhance its texture.

Front grating: Ursa's cat and the dreamer.

Back grating: The eyes at the four corners of the card box are closed, representing the process of entering the dream and the illusory dreamland.

The "Cryogenic Mirage" exists within people's dreams and is a mirror image of the real "awake universe", where many terrifying creatures dwell.

It is both a projection of human subconsciousness and the chessboard of ancient deities.

When night falls and the consciousness of mortals sheds its shackles, the imagination that was once confined by reason transforms into the steps leading to this place.

"When the stars return to their places, the watchers of the abyss will tear the veil. They may lie in wait in the dark side of the universe, or perhaps they are curled up beneath your closed eyelids tonight. In that indescribable dimension, the stars are pupils, dreams are traps, and every one who falls is a sacrifice to the ancient evil."
