An easy-to-do card effect with multiple surprises and an engaging plot.

"This routine is brilliantly designed, with a structure that surprises at every step. It is a fantastic fusion of mentalism and visual card magic."

- Bill Cheung

"Steve Langston's 'Free Thought' has it all: a devious method, multiple surprises, and an engaging plot. Plus, it's easy to do! This one's a winner."

- Matt Baker

"Free Thought is a brilliant effect based on principles we already know. But they are combined in a unique and genius way. This is a perfect closure for any closeup show, But even a perfect opener. This goes straight into my set list!"

- Rune Carlsen

Free Thought is a real workhorse that can be used in any environment. The routine is practical, well-constructed and the special deck does most of the heavy lifting. The reset is also super quick making it perfect for strolling. It gets my highest recommendation!

Illusions don't happen before our eyes, but rather in our minds.

Today, we're honored to present Free Thought by Steve Langston.

The magician spreads a deck of cards and invites the audience to freely think of any card. Attempting to capture the memory from the spectator's mind, the magician selects a card, flips it over, and places it back into the deck. When the cards are spread again, the spectator's card seems to have vanished from the face-up spread, leaving the face-down card as the thought of one.

With a snap, the magician reveals that it is all an illusion. The face-down card turns out to be blank, and the entire deck becomes blank as well. The thought-of card was never in the deck-it has been elsewhere all along-perhaps in a wallet, under a mat, in a pocket, or even on the spectator's chair.

Just like its name, Free Thought embodies the freedom of choice and revelation. The set features a brand new TCC Triumph Playing Card design, including one gaff deck and one normal deck.

Incredibly easy to handle and capable of delivering unbelievable effects, we're confident you'll love it!
