

Prediction Sketch Book - Bühnentrick

The magician displays a ring-bound pad, made up of three distinct stacks of sheets: one stack features dozens of different hats – another contains numerous facial expressions – and the last presents a variety of mouths.

After showing them to the audience, the magician invites three children to participate. The first child lifts the first stack at any point, thus selecting a hat. The second child does the same with the second stack, choosing a facial expression. Finally, the third child lifts the third stack, revealing a mouth.

In this way, the three children have created a unique face, the result of a random combination of hat, expression, and mouth. But here comes the twist: the magician points to a prediction that has remained in plain sight, opens it slowly... and the drawing inside matches the face just created perfectly!

A magical moment, where chance meets illusion!

- The ring-bound pad, made with cardstock sheets, measures 22 cm (8,66") x 14.5 cm (5,70") x 0.5 cm (0,19").