

Potter Rising Wand by Aramiz

Now you have a magical effect that will help you create amazement and lots of fun for your spectators.

The Rising Potter Wand is based on the classic magic wand that mysteriously rises between the magician's fingers - but it has been improved. This version adopts the modern archetype of magic wands, designed in the style that audiences now recognize thanks to the wizarding movies of recent years.

Designed especially for children's shows, the magician demonstrates that the wand can rise at the command of the children's finger movements. Once they discover they can make the wand rise at any moment, they can't resist the temptation to wiggle their fingers and make it float - putting the magician in an apparently uncontrollable and embarrassing situation that results in plenty of laughter from the audience.

The wand is 3D-printed using polylactic acid (PLA) filament, making it durable and environmentally friendly.

Each wand is finished by hand.
