

E:JECT by Trick Trick Boom

E:JECT

is an incredible gadget that will shoot a regular sharpie up to 15 feet into the air at the touch of a button.

Everybody needs a Sharpie during their set.

Wizard Magic Review - 100%

Now, you've got the very best way ever created to bring that Sharpie into play.

"Gotta tell you E:JECT is amazing and it is now an integral part of my show. I wanted to see if I could order two or three more. It's an incredible tool"
- Justin Willman

E:JECT is a unique, visual, and incredibly easy way to create an unforgettable moment.

"E:JECT is surprising, magical, and most importantly... FUN! I love everything about it!"
- Henry Harrius

We decided to go to the extra expense of injection-moulding the gimmick, because we wanted this little puppy to last. No cheap 3D-printing, this thing will not let you down. You can set the height and control the exact moment from a wireless remote. Oh, you want a hands-free way to fire the pen? This also comes with a bicep strap to let you shoot the pen out with empty hands. For safety, there is also a double-locking mechanism to make sure E:JECT only fires when it is meant to.

"E:JECT is brilliantly engineered - simple, elegant, and truly impressive!"
- Joao Miranda

This is suitable for every single performer.

Close-up performer? Use it to fire a Sharpie out of your breast pocket four feet up in the air and triumphantly catch it.

Parlor or stage act? Throw the Sharpie into your case, only to have it fly back to you.

Kids' magician? You introduce the idea of portals to the kids. You drop a pen in one bag, on one side of the stage, only to have it fly out of another bag on the other side!

You could even perform a trick where the deck of cards is tossed into a bag, a Sharpie thrown in, then seconds later the Sharpie jumps out of the bag with the selection speared on it!

We soft-launched this at MAGIC: Live and it had everyone talking. And we mean everyone.

Matt Franco, Piff, Justin Willman, Eric Tait, Anna Deguzman, John Archer, Jack Rhodes, Charlie Frye, Henry Harrius and Joao Miranda all picked up E:JECT from our stand.

Now it's your turn