

GIFTISM by Deuce Gala Magic

Most mental magic asks you to be someone you're not: intense, mysterious, reading their energy or testing their intuition.

Giftism gives you something different. You get to be warm, playful, and completely yourself while revealing what someone is thinking in a way that feels like you're both in on the secret as it unfolds.

You show five cards with a "gift box" design, asking if they're the type of person who shakes their presents to figure out what's inside.

After choosing a gift from a list, they nostalgically shake each card, flipping each one over to see if it's inside. Sometimes it is, other times it isn't. It's playful and gets them laughing.

Now comes the shift. After they've shaken all five "gift boxes", you say that the reason you asked is because you're actually pretty good at this yourself.

You take the cards and shake them near your ear. You start describing what you hear. Something metallic jingling. Fabric moving. An... animal sound? You're working through the details in real time.

When you look up, their expression has completely changed, because you've been describing exactly what they chose, and they can see you know before ever naming it out loud!

This is the magic you create with Giftism. A moment of shared wonder that feels effortless, genuine, and too good to be true.

If you're the kind of performer who wants to do mental magic without the pressure of adopting a persona; who loves watching people discover the impossible alongside you - Giftism was made for you.

Why Performers Love Giftism

- Nostalgic premise, deceptive method.
- Mentalism without the persona.
- Old math principle, fresh presentation.

- Multiple reveal options to fit your style.
- Built for improvisation and play.
- Can be revealed without you in the room.
- Opens conversations, creates connection.
- Close-up design, parlor ready.

What Magicians Are Saying