

Sponge Bananas by Alan Wong

These sponge bananas just look so funny, they will leave your audience roar with laughter! They are a perfect ending to any sponge routine!

For example, you can change a yellow silk into a sponge banana, or simply produce it from an empty paper bag then make a banana split (pun intended) and split the sponge banana into two!

Continue to multiply the bananas one after another and place them into the bag.

For the finale, you can produce a banana milk shake out of the bag and all the bananas are gone! Highly realistic look with hand painted details.

Come with two sponge bananas.