

Infinity Box (Red)

Six precisely nested boxes, stacked like Russian dolls. One fits inside the other, each layer holding a surprise.

Let the audience shuffle the deck thoroughly-mixing cards face-up and face-down as they wish. All you have to do is open the boxes, one by one.

On the back of each box, a clear prediction is printed, accurately describing the state of the shuffled deck at that moment:

"X cards are face-up" | "X of them are red"...

As you open each box, every statement comes true.

Until the final box is opened-all the predictions have been fulfilled, except for one card.

That one card remains outside every prophecy.

This is where the real magic unfolds:

Stack the opened boxes into a tower, and on its side, the full image of that very card emerges.
