

Sith Sense by Kev G & TCC Magic

The classic Color Vision principle, reimagined for cube magic with over three hours of instruction and a wide range of performance possibilities.

Nearly a century ago, Martin Sunshine created Color Vision. With its minimalist design, ingenious mechanism, and striking impact, this classic prop quickly became one of the most iconic and recognizable pieces in magic history.

Now, Kev G and TCC Magic present a modern, upgraded version of this timeless legend: Sith Sense.

The spectator places the mini cube into the box and closes the lid. The entire process happens completely out of the magician's sight. Even so, the magician can accurately reveal which side of the cube is facing up, without opening the box.

Then, the spectator places the cube into the box again. This time, the magician writes down a precise prediction in advance. When the spectator opens the lid with their own hands and sees the cube, its final state perfectly matches the magician's prediction.

Sith Sense is far more than a single effect. It seamlessly integrates the core principle of Color Vision into both the box structure and the mini cube, unlocking a wide range of creative applications, including hand-off force selection, instant cube solving, cube pattern matching, and more.

It can be performed as a standalone routine or smoothly integrated into your existing cube magic repertoire.

To help you fully explore the potential of Sith Sense, we teamed up with Kev G to produce an in-depth tutorial lasting over 3 hours.

Kev G is well known among magicians for his cube magic props and instructional materials. In this project, he incorporates the 446 mix technique from his work Refraktor Project and combines it with Sith Sense to create a variety of incredible routines.

The tutorial not only teaches full routine construction, but also breaks down the 446 mix technique itself and its practical applications. Even if you do not have a strong foundation in cube magic, you can still perform the complete routines with ease.

In addition to the standard cube components, Sith Sense also includes customizable dice accessories, ESP symbol stickers, and blank stickers. The blank stickers allow you to customize the content according to your performance needs, while the included accessories make it easy to expand the prop into different performance themes.

Each Sith Sense set is made from black resin, with the main structure crafted using high-precision 3D printing. All components are carefully assembled by hand, and every magnet is individually calibrated and tested to ensure optimal magnetic performance.

The result is a stable, smooth, and reliable handling experience for both daily practice and stage performance, allowing you to focus entirely on your show.

Inheriting the legendary DNA of Color Vision, Sith Sense expands the possibilities of cube magic and introduces a fresh, modern performance experience.
