

One By One by Mickael Chatelain

A playing card is simply folded in quarters. Unfold it and hold it face up towards your spectators.

Simply pass your other hand in front of it, and on the first pass, a corner of the card mysteriously turns upside down as if it had been misprinted! Three-quarters of the card is still face up, while a quarter is now face up!

Pass your hand again, and a second piece also turns over! The card is now half face up and half back up! It's completely crazy and impossible!

The process is repeated two more times, and with each pass of your hand, a piece mysteriously turns over!

At the end, the card is still held in front of your spectators as it was originally... the only thing that's changed is that now it's facing away from you!

Never seen before in magic! By simply passing your hand over it, the card turns over piece by piece!

"Certainly the most beautiful trick I've seen in a long time." - João Miranda
