

Gone Wallet by Brandon Williams

A fully loaded wallet is displayed with cash, cards, and the spectator's driver's license.

The spectator places the wallet in their pocket.

Then, on your command, it happens.

The cash is gone.

The cards are gone.

Their ID has vanished.

The wallet is completely empty.

The audience saw everything inside the wallet beforehand. No switches. Nothing is secretly removed before the wallet is put away.

Moments later, every item is reproduced from the performer.

In different pockets. In your sock. Or just about anywhere you choose.

Gone Wallet is built around a normal-looking bifold wallet designed to create the illusion of expert pickpocketing without ever touching the spectator.

Perfect for beginners or working professionals, close-up or on stage.

Use it as a standalone reputation-maker or integrate it seamlessly into a larger pickpocket act.

Beyond the main routine, Gone Wallet also functions as a versatile utility device for switches, transformations, predictions, reveals, and more.

- The wallet does the heavy lifting. You control the timing and the reveals.
- Fully customizable.
- Works with any currency, paper or plastic.
- Packs small, plays big. An entire act in your pocket.

- Everything needed (except the spectator's ID) is included and ready to perform right out of the box.

A showstopper.

A reputation-maker.

A pickpocket miracle without ever touching a single pocket.

"Beside being an impactful routine for the real world, Gone Wallet is an everyday tool."

-Alex Boyer

"Almost as easy as picking your own pocket."

-James Harrison

"This feels less like a trick and more like a utility device."

-Al Chen

"This wallet is basically cheating - in the best way."

-Zackory Pattee
