

WingsMagic Presents: Fantastic Microphone by Ran

Ran is a magician who works in front of live audiences. The Fantastic Microphone was his show opener for three years - three years of real crowds, real pressure, and real refinement.

He didn't design it at a desk and hope for the best. He tested it where it counts: in rooms full of people who came to watch. Every detail that survived those three years earned its place. What you're getting is the version that proved itself.

The Effect:

Set to music, the magician's microphone begins to emit the sound of water - and then, water pours out of the microphone.

Next, the sound of sand - and sand spills from the microphone.

Finally, birdsong rings out, and with a flash of flame, a dove appears!

A truly theatrical opening piece.
