

The Pen Game by Jon Allen

Russian Roulette is a classic routine. It's not been suitable for everyone.... until now.

Six marker pens: five dry and one that works

Six audience members each take one

One by one, the pens are freely selected and handed to you.

You run each pen across your face, your tie, your shirt, something valuable, or even someone else, hoping not to leave an indelible mark.

The final pen is revealed to be the dangerous one.

"The Pen Game is the most fun, most exciting and most believable of any 'Russian Roulette' routine. A true worker that you can easily make your own."

Jon Armstrong

"Such a fun routine with a level of danger that appeals to an audience"

John Archer

"There's suspense AND humor AND it can go on a plane with me? Brilliant!"

Chad Long

"As soon as I saw this routine, I instantly knew it was going in my show"

Eric Leclerc

The Pen Game is the perfect balance between comedy and serious consequences. It's a fantastic routine to add to your show whether it's for kids, family, adult or corporate.

There has never been such a versatile version of Russian Roulette. You can adapt The Pen Game to suit your own style. Make it as funny, or as serious as you want. There are many different ways to perform the routine with several ideas included in the tutorial. Involve audience members as much or as little as you want.

You receive everything needed to perform The Pen Game, except paper and an optional dice shaker.

If you have always wanted to perform Russian Roulette but haven't found one to suit you yet... The Pen Game is for you.