

Notes App Forces Anything by Richard Zeng & Bacon Magic

In modern magic, the smartphone has evolved from a communication tool into a natural performance medium. Created by magician Richard Zeng, Notes App Forces Anything combines this sense of everyday familiarity with deep psychological logic. Its ingenious principle provides you with covert and reliable assistance.

Performance Routine

1. The magician opens the Notes app on their phone, revealing a list of 50 famous singers' names.
2. A spectator freely chooses any number between 1 and 50.
3. The magician asks the spectator to put the phone down, confirming the number was truly their own free choice.
4. The spectator then confirms which singer corresponds to that number.
5. Without ever touching the phone, the magician reveals exactly which singer was chosen.
6. Even with the phone face-down on the table, the magician can still pinpoint the exact information.

Flexible Customization

- Replace the prediction content with: movie titles, travel destinations, fruits, or any logically coherent category.
- Not limited to 50 items - freely adjust the list size.
- Use as a standalone routine or as a powerful utility for other effects.

Key Features

- Uses the iPhone native Notes app - not a disguised interface.
- Spectators can freely inspect the phone and other memos - no suspicious third-party apps or modifications to be found.
- "Set it and forget it" preparation - once configured, no further complex operations needed.

What's Included

- 1 physical NFC card
- Detailed tutorial by Richard Zeng (covering everything from system configuration to live performance nuances)