

The Luscher Protocol: Dice Edition by Doosung & AB

A psychological test using colors leads to a unique prediction-and there's even a massive twist!

Doosung & AB's Luscher Protocol: Dice Edition is a powerful magic routine that engages the audience and is fun to perform, all while delivering a stunning finale.

First, you hand the spectator an object. This is the "prediction die," which the spectator places in their pocket without anyone else seeing it. And pull eight dice out of a black pouch. The pouch has a tag attached to it, which contains a color-based psychological test. The spectator carefully selects four favorite colors from the eight dice, choosing them by looking at them. Using the four dice chosen by the spectator, check the test results on the back of the tag attached to the pouch to see if the spectator's personality is accurately revealed.

When checking the results corresponding to each die color, the spectator realizes that they all match their own psychology! Up to this point, this has been a highly modern and scientific test, fully validated by science. Now, you tell the audience that you're going to show them something that cannot be explained by science.

The audience member places the dice into the pouch and, this time, selects them without looking-relying solely on intuition and instinct. Now, ask the audience member to take out the "prediction" die they placed in the pouch at the beginning. It's hard to believe, but it matches the audience member's choice exactly! This is an incredible, astonishing phenomenon that is simply impossible to explain through science.

But let's take it one step further.

Ask the audience to check the tag from the pouch used in the psychological test earlier once again. When they check the test results, they'll find that all the options have completely changed to match the color of the die the spectator chose.

It's a magic trick so incredible that even as you watch it unfold, you can't believe where the illusion began or how much of it was actually the spectator's own choice!

The greatest strength of the Luscher Protocol: Dice Edition is that it begins with a "psychological test" involving the audience. Thanks to this, every audience member is immediately immersed and engaged, and the subsequent prediction effect and the powerful twist at the climax come as an even greater shock to everyone.

Additionally, since it's an interactive routine where the audience gets to handle all the props themselves, you can create a more engaging performance by building a close connection with them.

Not only that, but all the props look completely ordinary, and you can let the audience inspect everything after the performance. This helps put even the most skeptical audience members at ease, and the impossible effect that follows after the natural psychological test comes as an unexpected and astonishing twist. Of course, it's incredibly easy to perform! Since no difficult techniques are required, you can focus entirely on your presentation; you'll learn it quickly and be able to start performing right away.

All necessary components are included so you can start performing immediately, and you can carry it conveniently in a pouch to perform fun shows anytime, anywhere.

It's casual, allows you to interact with the audience and perform in a fun way, is easy to carry, is simple to perform without any pressure, features truly amazing effects, and even comes with a powerful twist ending...

Highly recommend it to anyone looking for a trick that has it all!
