

Spirit Echo (Peek - reveal board) by Electricks - Bühnentrick

Spirit Echo is the central electronic slate in the Spirit system: an A4-sized slate with a completely natural look, featuring a real chalkboard surface that lets you peek and reveal in real time whatever is written or drawn somewhere else.

What it does - It instantly makes visible:

drawings

words and names numbers

times/clock faces playing cards

symbols, games, predictions

Key strengths

Instant refresh, with speed suited for live performance

TrueWrite™ text rendering

TrueSketch™ drawing engine

Picture-in-picture through the PeekSmith app (coming in a firmware update)

Direct integration with Atom, Quantum, PeekSmith 3, MrCard, and later Bond

Real chalkboard surface, allowing for natural endings and convincing erasures

Silent, reliable, designed for real-world performance conditions

It can become the main revelation display for the entire show

Relevant integrations - It receives input from:

Atom

Quantum

PeekSmith 3

MrCard

PeekSmith app

It can display:

calculations from Quantum drawings from compatible devices numeric or text input from Atom

Routines

Drawing duplication: whatever is drawn elsewhere appears instantly on Echo

Time prediction: input on Atom/Quantum ? immediate reveal on Echo

Tic-tac-toe finale: the slate updates in real time during the spectator's choices

Name reveal: the spectator writes a name ? Echo shows it ? you erase it ? the slate can be examined
