

N15 by N2G

Watch metal do the impossible.

N15 is a highly visual coin transformation built around one unforgettable moment: a solid coin appears to melt like chocolate right in your hand.

You begin with what looks like an ordinary copper coin. As it turns, the metal seems to soften and drip downward - as if the coin itself is literally melting.

And that's only the beginning.

The melted coin transforms into real chocolate, giving you a natural and impossible ending you can actually eat - or hand to your spectator.

Why N15 Feels Different

Most coin-to-object effects happen in an instant.

N15 gives your audience something more:

they actually see the transformation happen.

The coin doesn't simply change into chocolate.

It appears to melt into it.

That strange intermediate moment - metal visibly dripping in your fingers - is what makes N15 so memorable.

Real Chocolate Ending

The final transformation can end with genuine chocolate.

Bite into it yourself, or hand it directly to your spectator.

It creates the perfect final convincer:

what looked impossible only seconds ago is now completely real.

Built for Real-World Performance

N15 is compact and easy to carry, making it ideal for:

- Close-up magic
- Casual performances
- Social media content
- Walk-around situations
- Visual magic routines

The setup is quick, so you can keep N15 ready whenever the moment feels right.

Multiple Presentations

The core effect is simple, but the presentation can be completely different.

Ask: "Which one melts first - a coin or chocolate?"

Turn it into a comedy moment: "They say you can't eat money."

Or simply say nothing and let the visual speak for itself.

N15 gives you a strong visual moment that can be adapted to your own style.
