Final Chapter by Ethan Yip

FINAL CHAPTER

"I've always loved magic that happens directly in the spectator's hands-effects like Omni Deck and Phantom Deck. But in most routines of this kind, once the deck switch is complete and the cards are placed in the spectator's hands, the magician removes a "wrong card" simply to deal with the cover card and complete the transition.
So I decided to turn the mistake into the moment: transform it into a laugh, then connect that laugh directly to the final surprise waiting in the spectator's hands.
This is Final Chapter*.*

While the deck is still trapped between the spectator's hands, the ending has already been rewritten.

"This is your card."
